Longstanding Partner ON Semiconductor Recognizes Avnet's Global Distribution Leadership

Terms:

Technology solutions company also takes top awards in the Americas and EMEA

The near-60-year partnership between ON Semiconductor and Avnet marked its latest milestone today with the news that ON Semiconductor has named Avnet as its top distribution partner globally. The technology solutions provider was also named top distribution partner in the Americas and EMEA (for Avnet Silica).

ON Semiconductor presents yearly awards to honor the distributor in each region that led overall channel sales, grew market share, captured increased sales of products and scored highly on overall process excellence in an evolving semiconductor market. Avnet has been continuously recognized as one of ON Semiconductor's top partners, most recently for the EMEA region in 2019. This year's global recognition in addition to two regions reinforces the strength of Avnet and ON Semiconductor's global relationship.

"Congratulations to Avnet for being named our top distributor of 2019 in the Americas, EMEA and the global distributor categories," said Jeff Thomson, senior vice president of global channel sales for ON Semiconductor. "As two companies who were recently recognized as a World's Most Ethical Company® by Ethisphere, executing on business strategies with an organization who holds similar values allowed us to achieve results together which outperformed the market in 2019. On behalf of the entire organization, we appreciate our partnership and look forward to continued success together in the future."

The awards serve as further affirmation of Avnet's best-in-class supply chain practices and positive contributions to the electronics industry. As a technology solutions provider, Avnet utilizes its global reach with a strong basis in connected regional support to drive customer engagement end-to-end. Avnet and its suppliers, including ON Semiconductor, jointly deliver value in key verticals by building on its foundation of distribution with a robust ecosystem that's different than the fulfillment lens of the past.

Avnet's core distribution business—with design expertise, supply chain and distribution/logistics—is the foundation by which all its new solutions as a global technology solutions provider are built, from manufacturing and the IoT to integrated, AI, software and more.

"Avnet is honored to be recognized by ON Semiconductor for the value and revenue growth that we helped create in 2019," said Phil Gallagher, global president, Avnet Electronic Components. "With our global design-to-supply chain capabilities, we're moving full speed ahead to help our partner reach customers and drive design wins with ON Semiconductor content in the automotive, industrial, and cloud-power market at an accelerated rate."

Avnet and ON Semiconductor's long history dates back nearly 60 years, when Hamilton Electro Sales and Motorola, Inc., signed a historic distribution agreement that marked the world's first semiconductor distribution contract. That relationship has only grown through many transformative decades as Avnet, which acquired Hamilton in 1962, and ON Semiconductor, which spun off from Motorola in 1999, continue driving semiconductor innovation across their global markets.
